MIND & BODY: HOW THE INDIVIDUAL CAN ELIMINATE CHRONIC PAIN

PANELISTS

Alisha M. Brown, Director Total Wellness, California State University Fullerton

Edward Canavan, SVP Casualty Practices, Sedgwick

Adam Heller, Author & Pain Coach, Zero Pain Now

According to the American Academy of Pain Medicine 100 million Americans suffer from chronic pain costing health care payers $600 billion annually.

Chronic pain is traditionally treated with surgery, non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs, acetaminophen, opioids, physical therapy, acupuncture, TENS units and trigger point injections.

These treatment modalities can be costly and provide temporary relief often times requiring ongoing utilization.

This results in hefty reserves for self-insured employers and cost prohibitive Medicare-set-asides causing aged pending claims.

Join our expert panel that will discuss the epidemic around chronic pain, root causes and debate effective innovative alternative treatments resulting in optimal outcomes for the injured worker and employer.

CA-SIG 2019 SPRING FORUM KEYNOTE PRESENTATION

Jacob Green's extensive leadership experience comes from a variety of career and life experiences. As a city executive, Green has extensive experience helping oversee thousands of employees and multi-million dollar budgets.

But Jacob's life experience is even more impactful than his career achievements. This expert speaker could have been relegated to dark basements playing Xbox games all day. That can happen to people who get seriously injured early in life and don't know how to get off the mat. You see, Green took on a robber at a subway station when he was a college freshman. Not a Jiu-Jitsu practitioner, he wound up getting struck in the head numerous times by the violent criminal. The good news... his cranium kept two terrified subway workers safe!

The traumatic brain injury Green sustained forced him into nearly three years of full-time rehabilitation. After which he battled back to earn his Bachelor's Degree, Master's Degree, and work his way up in a large organization as a top executive. It's no wonder that his clients describe his talks as "inspiring, high-energy," and say Jacob "talked to us like an old friend."

He has received numerous awards for his work, including being a recipient of the National Caring Award in Washington, DC, alongside Dr. Jane Goodall, his is recipient of the Orange County Human Relations Award, and is the youngest recipient of the Gene Lentzner Humanitarian Award.
